

First-supports directory

A template to organize contacts, appointments and reports in one place.

Rights and first supports

What you are entitled to and how to start supports.

You have the right to...

- ✓ Developmental surveillance at every health check-up.
- ✓ Clear information, free of jargon, and a second opinion.
- ✓ Early-intervention services when needed.
- ✓ Educational inclusion from the earliest years.

No blame

Seeking support early is an act of care, not a sign of failure. The sooner, the easier it usually is to accompany.

How to start

1. Write down your observations and questions before the visit (use the log).
2. Talk with your pediatrician or health center about developmental surveillance.
3. Ask, if appropriate, for an early-intervention assessment.
4. Gather the directory of supports in your area and keep every report.

Early intervention

A program of supports in the first years, ideally in natural settings (home, school).

Report

A document summarizing observations and recommendations; keep it — it helps with paperwork.

Inclusion

The setting adapting to the child, not the other way around.
