

Caregiver support guide

You accompany with all your love, and that tires you too. Caring for yourself isn't selfish: it sustains the care of your family.

- Tiredness that doesn't lift with rest.
 - Irritability, easy tears or feeling on "autopilot".
 - Setting aside your own needs, bonds or breaks.
 - Guilt for resting or for feeling what you feel.
- 1 Set aside small, real breaks, even ten minutes.
 - 2 Lean on your network: sharing care is also caring.
 - 3 Talk about your feelings with someone you trust or a professional.
 - 4 Celebrate small wins, yours and your child's.

Asking for help is caring. You don't have to manage everything alone. Seeking support is a form of strength, not failure.